Wessex Water's commitment to the environment was a prominent feature in the planning of its new operations centre on the outskirts of Bath. Award winning architects, Bennetts Associates, were appointed " to design a sympathetic building which will not only be an attractive place to work, but an attractive addition to the area."

"Creating a sustainable office" was of paramount importance. This ideal was carried through from the overall design to the smallest details in the building. Bisley responded to the requirement with the Bisley Lateral File range which is manufactured utilising the most efficient and environmentally responsible processes. The result is an aesthetically pleasing product designed for longevity in use and appearance.

This impressive project was brought to a successful completion with the assistance of Corporate Design.
